SEMINARY

How to use the study calendar?

This seminary calendar is for:

- Seminary teachers
- Seminary students
- Parents of students.

The seminary study calendar is now completely aligned with the « Come, follow me—for individuals and families » program calendar. In each family with seminary students, this will greatly facilitate personal and/or family scripture study.

How to use the calendar?

- The column « Week » indicates the calendar week number and the Monday to Friday dates.
- The column « Day » indicates the weekdays Monday to Tuesday. Days in red indicate holidays or school vacations. In these instances, there is normally no seminary class that day.
- The column « Come, Follow Me » indicates the scripture block to study every week in the program Come, follow me – for individuals and families.
- The column « Student » indicates the reference of the Home-study Guide for Seminary Students. When a student does his home-study or has attendance to catch up, he uses this reference to access the manual, study the exercises of the day and accomplish by writing the tasks marked with a purple pen. When there is no reference, it is the teacher who decides and gives the work to be done to compensate absences.
- The column « Teacher » indicates the references of the lessons in the Seminary Teacher Manual or the Doctrinal Mastery Teacher Manual that are used to prepare the seminary lesson to teach.
- The column « Canvas » indicates the module's number to study and complete for the daily task when the student is enrolled in online seminary. Online seminary is accessed on the Canvas learning platform when the stake presidency has approved its use. Seminary online classes do not replace Video-conference Zoom classes, but are used by students for Home-study seminary days. If you have any questions on this subject, please contact your coordinator.

- The column « Scripture Block / Lesson Title » indicates the scripture block or the lesson title to study. Lesson numbers, Canvas modules and lesson titles in red indicate important lessons with an essential Doctrinal content.
Attention: DM lessons (Doctrinal Mastery) must be taught the day of the weekly physical class. If this class is taught on Wednesday and not on Friday for example, the teacher will have to shift days.
- The column « Learning Assessment » indicates to the teacher a particular scripture block that must be included in his lesson preparation. This means that in the learning assessment at the end of the semester, a question will be asked on that scripture. The teacher can consult the seminary assessment guide of that semester for more information.
